SPECIAL OFFER – SAVE $10.00!

Albany Law School has hosted an annual Kate Stoneman Day since 1994 to celebrate the first woman admitted to the Bar in New York, who was also the first woman to attend Albany Law School. This important book shares the inspiration, advice and experiences of pioneering women in the legal profession who continue to pave the way for others. Their speeches, delivered at Kate Stoneman Day and published here, are from our leading women lawyers—many of them active members of the American Bar Association as well as judges, professors and partners in major law firms.

This book is inspirational and enjoyable reading for all lawyers—regardless of gender—as well as for law students, women considering a career in law, and anyone interested in women’s issues. It is uplifting, yet it serves as a reminder of the struggles and challenges still faced by women in the legal profession.
